SARGASSO

Published By
THE SENIOR CLASS OF '40
AT EARLHAM COLLEGE
RICHMOND, INDIANA

DEDICATION

TO THE KICKING POST, HONORED
BECAUSE IT REPRESENTS TO US THE TRADITION THAT MAKES EARLHAM,
BECAUSE IT WILL STAND AS A RE-
MINDER TO FUTURE GENERATIONS
OF WHAT EARLHAM HAS MEANT TO US, AND BECAUSE IT HAS HELPED OUR WISHES TO COME TRUE, WE,
THE CLASS OF 1940, DEDICATE THIS BOOK.

*"If there's a wish within thy heart,
To my stone face a kick impart,
And, though thee may have stubbed a toe,
Upon my word—it shall be so!"*

Tradition at Earlham

THE 1940 SARGASSO IS AN ATTEMPT TO RECORD THE PEOPLE, THE PLACES AND THE EVENTS WHICH HAVE BECOME SO ESSENTIALLY A PART OF THE YEARS WE HAVE SPENT AT EARLHAM. WE HAVE TRIED TO INTEGRATE THESE FACTORS WITH THAT NEBULOUS SOMETHING CALLED EARLHAM TRADITION WHICH CLINGS TO ALL THINGS INTIMATELY ASSOCIATED WITH THE COLLEGE. NOT ONLY HAVE WE CONSIDERED FRESHMAN WEEK, MAY DAY, CLEAN-UP DAY AND HOMECOMING TO BE TRADITIONALLY EARLHAM, BUT ALSO THE PARLOR, THE PINES AND THE CEMETERY; THE PENETRATING FUMES OF PARRY HALL AND THE FRAGRANCE OF THE LILACS IN FRONT OF THE LIBRARY; THE SALMON-AND-PEAS AND THE ICE-CREAM-WITH-CHOCOLATE-SAUCE; THE RAUCOUS CLANGOR OF THE BELL ON EARLHAM HALL AT 6:30 IN THE MORNING AND THE TRIUMPHANT PEALING OF THIS SAME BELL AFTER AN ATHLETIC VICTORY. ALL THESE ARE EARLHAM—THE MEMORIES THAT WILL NEVER DIE BUT REMAIN FOREVER YOUNG.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

PRESIDENT DENNIS

A. B., Earlham College, 1896
A. B., Harvard University, 1897
A. M., 1898; LL. B., 1901
LL. D., Earlham College, 1911
LL. D., DePauw University, 1937
LL. D., Indiana University, 1939

Brother Dennis is a man of many and varied abilities. He manages the official affairs of the college, acts as middle-man between the trustees and the student body, teaches classes in Law and News, and engages in such extra-curricular activities as leading the successful campaign against a bill for state taxation of private schools.

Easily recognizable from afar by his syncopated stride, the rakish tilt of his hat, and the everpresent brief-case, he scurries from place to place, undoubtedly the busiest man for miles around.

The Indianapolis Speedway was deprived of an intrepid and colorful driver when Wild Bill took up the study of international law. We are always filled with wonder and admiration whenever we behold him piloting his stock-model Dodge around the students and between the trees.

"We are under great obligation" to him for his loyalty, his friendship, and his untiring interest in anything concerning Earlham. Among his other innovations he has entirely done away with the proverbial green carpet, which now serves as the foundation for his filing system.

Able executive, camera enthusiast, ringleader of College Outings and Senior Picnics, torchbearer of the G. O. P., interpreter of international relations, a regular fellow with endearing mannerisms and a swell sense of humor—that's Prexy.

DEAN H. RANDOLPH PYLE

A. B., Whittier College, 1926

A. M., University of California, 1928

Ph. D., 1931

Here is a man who dispenses mathematical knowledge to embryonic Einsteins and justice to masculine pranksters with equal facility. Despite his absent-minded air, he keeps abreast of all student activities, and even takes a genuine interest in such insignificant social events as midnight serenades. A mute man usually, Randy, by his spasmodic flashes of wit and humor, has won the name of 'Happy' Pyle among the less respectful element of Earlham. But there can be no denying that when it comes to mathematics, Prof. Pyle is indeed a whiz. As someone, possibly Shakespeare, once said: "We shall not look upon his like again."

DEAN CLARA COMSTOCK

Graduate New Haven Normal School
of Physical Education;
A. B., Earlham College, 1920

Commie knows more about everybody and his folks than any four members of the F.B.I. Our Purple Sage is "at home" in her office every day to give council, listen to tales of woe and pleas for leniency, and to help plan social affairs. She keeps posted on every college activity and, whether it be in the parlor or in the ballroom, she is always willing to shed light on any two subjects.

Dean Comstock is the power behind women's athletics, upholding the high reputation of Earlham hockey, and contributing vocal assistance and encouragement during all contests.

With characteristic grace and modesty, the senior class has dominated Earlham for the last four years. In a quiet, mediocre way it has unconsciously engaged in its studies and has found the leisure time to lend its ingenuity to extracurricular activities. Whether it be pounding rocks on the banks of Clear Creek or pounding the keys of a typewriter, whether it be dissecting cats or speaking French, whether it be cake baking or hockey playing—the Seniors are ever inclined to put their superior knowledge to the disposal of all those who are willing to listen. They have felt reverence, appreciation, disdain, and gratitude for all quaint customs and traditions of Earlham. As Sophomores, they instituted the memorable custom of Go-To-Hell Day, while as Juniors, they revived the practice of having the versatile Junior men sling hash to the student body at a festive banquet.

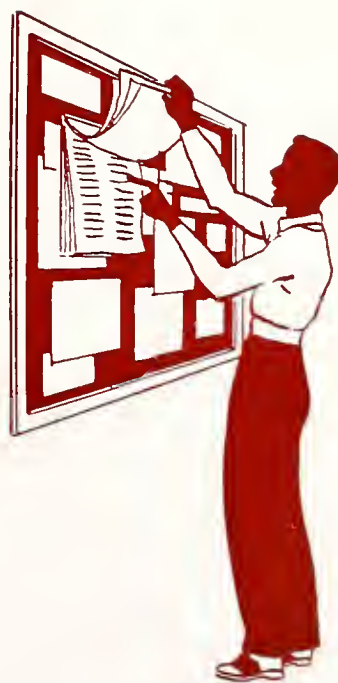

The chapel programs alone serve as a monument to the diversity and tomfoolery exhibited by this class. From the spectacular variety program to the stark drama of "Ten Nights in a Milk-Bar"; from the beautiful bungling technique in the "Boredkin Ballet" to the rollicking comedy of "The Women"—all these constitute the extravaganzas, brought to disgrace the stage of Goddard Auditorium by the class of 1940.

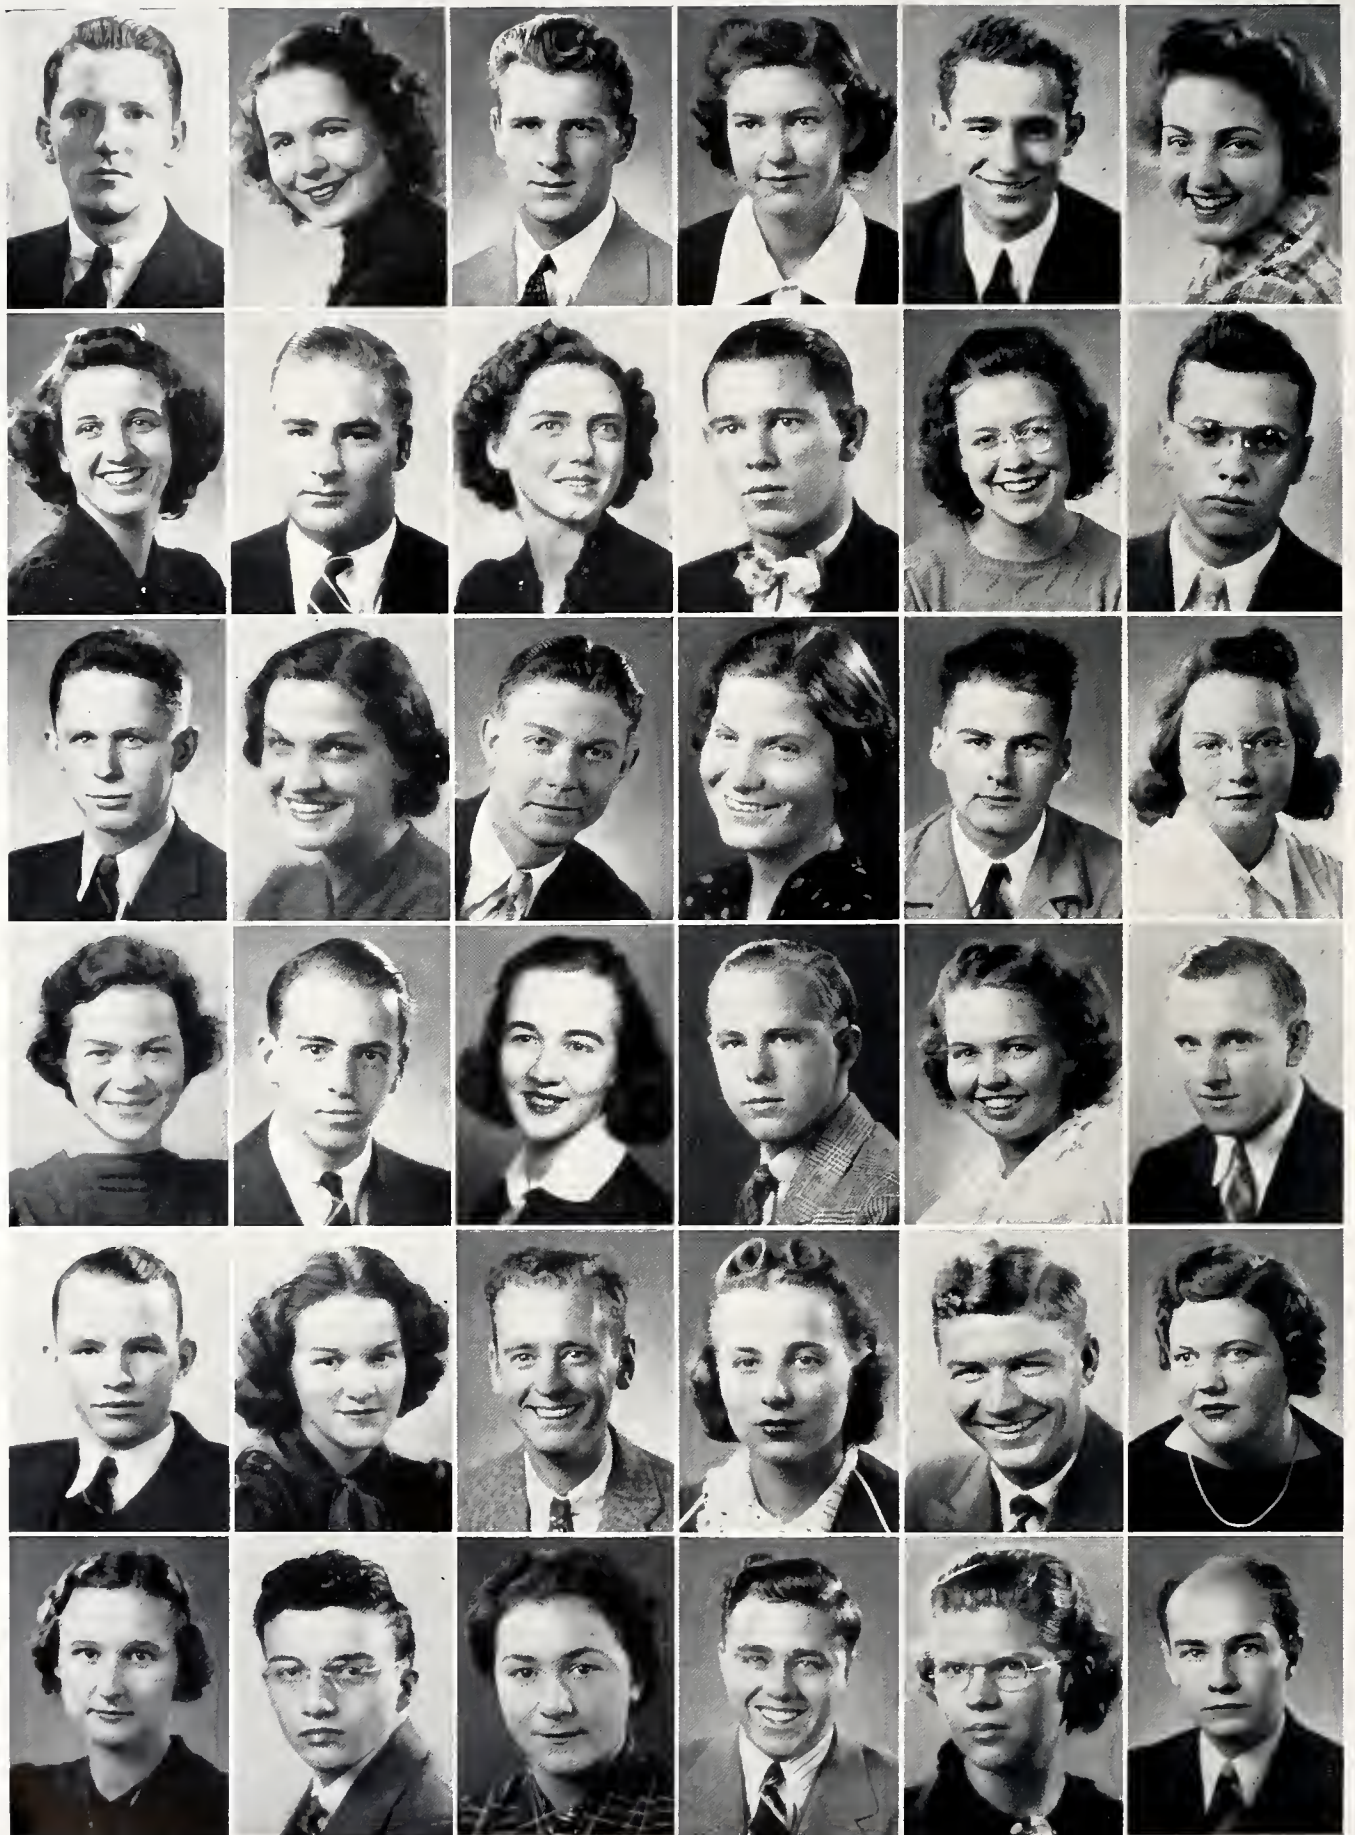

In their college-childhood days of green caps and aprons, their faltering footsteps were guided by the mighty Freeman. As self-sufficient Sophomores, class meetings were paralyzed by the earthy Indiana humor of Buck Bland. In lengthy and eloquent speeches, Robertson, as Junior president, frequently extolled the praises of his lowly class. As these self-same youngsters reached maturity and became seniors, Hawk took over the helm and successfully steered at least the minority of them toward commencement week.

Throughout its Earlham career, the Junior Class has leaned on its musical and dramatic talent as its claim to distinction. Due to some misunderstanding, no doubt, they have carried many a laurel from Goddard stage. Some of these were gained by their chapel programs, which we hate to admit, have been rather clever. They followed eagerly in the footsteps of their predecessors in having a Sophomore Go-To-Hell Day, with Kuethe swinging from branch to branch, a Tarzan without his jungle. At their junior dinner in the dining room, they presented many a distinguished foreign personage, also two chorines. They must be eminent students, because practically all of them passed their Junior Orals. Their self-admiration increased, with reason, when Jo Ann Martin brought back highest honors from the state oratorical contest.

Dick Wright succeeded in pulling them through the green hat and cap stage, crooner Thomas as Sophomore president zoomed the class to greater heights, and last but not least Durkee, who had waited long enough, took the gavel into his capable paws and inveighed the class into making his major prof. class sponsor.

The fall of '38 ushered in a spirited aggregation to be the sister class of the noble seniors. William Hale was chosen to steer them through their "salad days, when they were green in judgment." That year was packed full of action; they dazzled the oldsters with their versatility and vitality in the presentation of a Professor Quiz program in Goddard.

But this year surpasses last in the demonstration of their histrionic abilities. They rolled 'em in the aisles with the very meller meler-drama which was their chapel contribution. Considering last year, it came as a delightful surprise. In extra-curriculars, various members of the class have managed by one means or another to snag quite a bit of honor unto themselves. From among their lowly numbers came the winner of the Old Line Oratorical Contest, the Editor and Business Manager of the Post, a feminine aquatic star, and a goodly representation in Mask and Mantle, Phoenix, Ionian, Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A., Ye Anglican, Peace Volunteers, and varsity sports. Of course, the social success of the season was the banquet which the sophomores gave in honor of the estimable seniors, and many tears were shed by all at the thought of the parting so soon to come.

Along about the first of September, 1939, the largest group of freshmen in fifteen years swarmed down upon us. They were outstanding in their numbers, in contrast to the small group of select students who greeted them.

Their flagrant self-satisfaction after the freshman program was soon squelched by the paternal, indulgent precedent committees. After this brief period of instruction had prepared them to meet all emergencies of college life, they insidiously inserted themselves into the intrigues of campus institutions. Such groups as varsity hockey and varsity basketball teams, peace group, Phoenix, and language clubs enjoyed the pleasure and edification of their company.

Still more noteworthy accomplishments of this juvenile mob include mastery of local patois and yells, a tolerance of white cherries and hot dogs, the acquisition of a nonchalant manner when calling one's best girl, or when meeting the current Romeo, and that all-important knowledge of the location of tomb-stones in the dark.

CAMPUS CLEAN-UP IS THE OPENING EVENT IN THE HOMECOMING ACTIVITIES. THE CAMPUS BECOMES A CONFUSION OF RAKES, BROOMS, BASKETS, TRUCKS AND PEOPLE. ALL EARLHAM TURNS OUT TO DO BATTLE WITH THE FALLEN LEAVES WHICH IN A FEW HOURS ARE EITHER CARRIED AWAY, OR SCATTERED AROUND UNTIL THEY ARE HARDLY NOTICEABLE. PROF. CHARLES SERVES CIDER AND DOUGHNUTS IN THE GERMAN B--R GARDEN, THE FRESHMEN GET TO WORK ON THE BIGGEST BONFIRE OF THE YEAR, AND PREPARATIONS FOR HOMECOMING THE FOLLOWING DAY ARE RUSHED TO COMPLETION.

THE SEASON

The 1939 Earlham football team enjoyed an unusually successful season due to its willingness to work and the ability of Coach J. Owen Huntsman to find plenty of work for it to do. With virtually the same team that played through the 1938 season and lost all but one game, Huntsman finished his third season as football coach with a record of five games won and two lost. Undoubtedly, the most important single factor in the team's success was the attitude of co-captain Lou Gohring, who didn't miss a single practice and who was out early each afternoon showing freshmen and sophomores how to play in the line and enjoy it. For the first time in many seasons, no freshman made an "E", although there was no dirth of good material in their ranks. Of the 14 lettermen, six are Seniors and five of those had played regularly for the past three seasons. Most missed, of course, will be co-captains Lou Gohring and John Balestrieri, lineman, and John Bland, blocking halfback.

The first game was played at Danville against Central Normal College under a scorching sun. The sun, which can be blamed for two very bad passes from center dished up by Zimmie, kept Earlham from getting over-confident at having things pretty much their own way. Big Jim Phelps started the game calling signals from the tailback position, but couldn't stand the strain of doing all the thinking and most of the work. So Huntsman relieved him of both for a while and resolved never to burden Big Jim with mental effort again. The highlights of the game were Ortwein's plunge for a touchdown and fine defensive work by the linemen.

Wright, Phelps, Ortwein, Gohring, Kinnard, Johnson, White, Walker, Dehoney, Ellington, Cross, H. Wright, Weaver, Cowan, Murray, Mullins, Watt.

DePauw game—Gohring making the tackle.

The Franklin game found the weather even more scorching. However, this same hot weather plus going steady with a Freshman girl worked Garoffolo down to his trimmest figure since his high school days. Genial Joe even began to show signs of intellectual ability which Coach Huntsman immediately noticed and converted into scorching punch. With Joe calling signals, Earlham pushed Franklin around at will and Jimmy Parker caught a pass for the first touchdown. In the last period Ortwein ran a put over the Franklin goal line behind fine blocking to make the outcome inevitable.

The Wabash game was a historic event for E. C. football followers. Earlham struck early for its touchdown when Phelps went over from the 3 yard line. Wabash then took advantage of our erratic pass defense to score their touchdown. But a fast charging line added a safety to our score when Johnnie Balestrieri and Gohring tackled Gray behind his goal line. The outstanding lesson of the day was administered by John "Bucko" Bland to the Wabash ends and tackles.

The team took an overnight trip to play Evansville down along the Ohio River. The boys got a taste of hotel life in the big city of Mt. Vernon down in Posey County where Coach Huntsman first learned to speak English. He was intent on having a good time among his old acquaintances but we noticed that he turned slightly crimson when the boys asked him how he made money enough to go to college when corn was only $.40 a bushel on the market and bootlegging was at its best. We won the game handily on touchdowns by Johnnie Balestrieri and Dick Wright despite several bad colds contracted on the long trip.

Our Homecoming was featured by the victory over Rose Tech of Terre Haute by a score of 14-13. Big Joe Balestrieri finally got going and blocked a try for point after a Rose Poly touchdown to run Earlham's winning streak to five straight games. Jimmy Parker and Dick Wright had the time of their lives taking free rides on Tech's giant Dave Colwell. It was like riding in a car you were deliberately trying to wreck just to see if it could be done. After an impressive first half, Earlham blew a tire in the third period and almost missed the headlines in the Indianapolis newspapers.

EARLHAM SEEKING SIXTH STRAIGHT AGAINST BALL STATE. That's the way we were billed by the sports writers. All we had to do was win this game and the next one to be Earlham's greatest team in 50 years of football. We tried our best, but the third quarter saw us trade a six point lead for an eight point deficit in something like four or five minutes. We still had enough left to score seven points in the final period, but as all good things must come to an end our winning streak was no exception.

We could win the DePauw game and still be Earlham's greatest team because Earlham had never beaten Wabash and DePauw in the same season. So for a whole week we went through the motions of practicing, resting secure on our fine showing against Ball State which, after all, is a bigger school than DePauw and had had a much better football season. At the half it was 21-0 for DePauw so we decided to show them our real strength during the second half. Big Jim Phelps scored a touchdown and we felt better until DePauw received the next kickoff. The final score was 48-6.

CROSS COUNTRY

Hawk, Briggs, Bye, Hamilton, Jordan, Miars, Clark

The Cross Country team had one of its most successful seasons this year. In dual meets the Earlham harriers were able to win over Wabash, Ball State and DePauw, losing only to Indiana Central. In a triangular meet with Wabash and Indiana Central, we took second place and won third place in the Little State meet at Muncie. By virtue of their showing in the Little State the team members have medals for souvenirs, that is, all but Harry Miars who thought they didn't have a chance to place and went to visit his girl.

After the regular season Coach Huntsman took Bye and Hawk to the N. C. A. A. meet at East Lansing, Michigan, to run in big time competition. Although they didn't finish out in front, it was good experience to run against some of the best distance runners in the Middle West.

As Captain Hawk is the only one to graduate, prospects for next year's team look unusually bright with John Bye, Eddie Jordan, Harry Miars, Roy Hamilton, and John Briggs all back.

Amidst the turmoil felt by students on the Earlham campus each year, "Bud" Weber gave freshmen and new girls the once over in regard to hockey possibilities. During the first few weeks of Miss Weber's tutelage 140 girls participated in this game on the green.

Taking only time out for a short breath, practice began to get into full swing with dribbling, driving scooping, lunging, and dodging. The intense practice was held with the forthcoming North Shore game in mind. During this time the Earlham lasses were very happy to accept an invitation to play Chicago at the Purdue play day. up transportation for this team, they came through with a one to nothing win. "Gertie" Lippincott broke through the strong Chicago line to score the only goal of the game.

With the experience of the Chicago game Earlham realized the weak spots and concentrated on them in preparation for the North Shore game. Plans were completed for a high school hockey play day to further the development of hockey throughout the midwest. November 4 was set for the play day and the exhibition game. Teams from various high schools gathered on Comstock field and stick work demonstration was given by the Earlham team, and then with combinations of various teams, games were played.

At 12:45 p. m. Jane Dulaney took the opening bully for Earlham and continued to do so throughout the game. Elinor Metzger came all the way in from the right wing position to slice a tricky goal in the first five minutes of play. The score at the end of the half was Earlham one—North Shore nothing.

Pennell scores against Chicago

In the second half, Marjorie Street made a goal for North Shore to tie up the game. Elinor Pennell went in for Betty Taylor and made the last score of the game which gave Earlham the victory two to one. Earlham played exceptionally good hockey, working together with a lot of drive and spunk. Play was fast and open and was a good exhibition game for the large group of enthusiastic spectators. This team was really something to be proud of; they showed the hard work and time they had spent on practices, which, after all, are essential. Not only the team but the coaches, Miss Weber and Mrs. Robinson, worked hard. They all deserve a lot of credit. E. C. still has her record of being undefeated (except by national teams) and may she always keep it.

The next highlight in 1939 hockey season was the class games in which the juniors, class of '41, were the winners. This team deserves a lot of credit for their excellent playing. They had control of the varsity players, having seven of the squad on their team. The surprise of the season was when the seniors pulled through to tie with the freshmen for second place. The sophomores drew the consolation prize.

Throughout the season, hockey "gals" of E. C. continued to build up this original English game with "Commie," the faithful booster, coaching and giving valuable suggestions from the sidelines.

Commencement may be the biggest event of the year, but Homecoming has a football game. Homecoming started the night before, with a bonfire and pep session, followed by the traditional Tivoli rush which featured several dozen pajama-clad freshies. Saturday morning saw the campus transformed for the gala event by a few responsible upperclassmen and a lot of irresponsible freshmen. The climax was reached with the football game (Earlham 14, Rose Poly 13) and the coronation of fair Marilyn Miller, Homecoming Queen. The day was made complete with Mask and Mantle's "The Romantic Young Lady" and the Alumni Dance.

THE ROMANTIC YOUNG LADY

"The Romantic Young Lady" by the Spanish author, G. Martinez Sierra, was presented by Mask and Mantle before a large Homecoming audience.

The action of the play reaches a high point when a young man's hat blows into the window of the room in which is seated Rosario Castellanos, the Romantic Young Lady. The headgear is followed by the owner himself, who later proves to be the author of the sentimental novels of which our young lady is so fond. Complications arise. The feminine intrigue enters, the hero receives a blow on the head, all is explained to the satisfaction of the family, and everyone lives happily after.

Jo Ann Martin and Bob Gingery provided the love interest with their fine portrayals of the leading characters. Dorothy Myrick gave her usual excellent performance in the role of the very wise and philosophical grandmother.

The cast included the following members:

Emilio Castellanos.....	Henry Edmunds

FRESHMAN WEEK STAFF

The first meeting of the 1939 Freshman Week Staff was held at President Dennis' new cabin. The order of business was conducted by Prexy in his formal picnic attire. Various committee meetings were held, one of them on the baseball diamond with Dave Keyser pitching, another meeting in the creek with Bud Weber as the presiding officer. Following a hearty repast the entire staff gathered for a discussion of their forthcoming duties.

As the freshmen rolled in the next day they were met with handshakes, handbooks, introductions, and programs of the week's activities. Sleuths on the staff detected any cases of homesickness and remedied them by hikes, tennis, sparking and other sports according to the personalities involved.

Weak, weary, and worn staff members finally found time to unpack their own trunks while the freshman concentrated on placement tests, etc. These brief breathing spells were the only opportunities for rejuvenation before the faculty reception, where upperclassmen strove vainly to introduce freshmen whose names they couldn't remember, to faculty members, whose names they couldn't remember.

Worn freshmen were at last allowed to go their own ways, as the mob upperclassmen descended once again on the campus.

FRESHMAN HANDBOOK STAFF

After being chosen by the YWCA and the YMCA, the Freshman Handbook Staff settled down to business in the early spring months of 1939 and selected its leaders. Lindley Clark was chosen editor and he it was who edited the information gathered by the other members of the staff. Berry Coe saw the printers and the result was one hundred seventy-five green and white "Freshman Bibles."

Until the Precedent Committee became insolvent at the beginning of the second semester the Freshman Handbooks were carried religiously by the members of the class of '43. The committee smiled to see their handwork so eagerly sought after. Because of the abundance of Freshmen and the scarcity of handbooks the 1943 edition was as valuable as a first edition in the Library. Crammed with information about clubs, their officers, their activities and requirements for membership, precedents, and Earlham songs and yells, the handbooks were as useful to the upperclassmen as to the Freshmen who were required to carry them.

MEN'S PRECEDENT COMMITTEE

This parental organization directs the activities of the freshmen toward becoming better citizens of the campus. The means by which the freshmen receive their instruction is impressing; "assume the angle," is a common cry to be heard at Precedent Committee meetings.

The group functioned with a cold efficiency the first months of the semester. Contrary to the old expression "This hurts me more than it does you," the gentlemen of the committee reveled in their duties, especially in domesticating such intractable members of the class of '43 as Renshaw, Cross, Mullins, and "Muscles" Zehring. The boys were given an opportunity to display their musical accomplishments and demonstrate their ability to tell stories while being educated to wear the venerable green cap, to not pick the campus flowers, to not tread on the grass, and to do the bidding of the committee members. And, while for some precedent violators discipline was not meted out immediately, they did get it in the end.

WOMAN'S PRECEDENT COMMITTEE

"Freshman off the grass!" "Pull that green hat down over your hair!" "Keep off the middle stairs!"

It is for such things as this that we are indebted to the Precedent Committee. If it were not for this opportunity for heckling the newly-arrived Freshmen, think how dull the fall days would be! And the most paradoxical thing about it is that thir diabolical organization is sponsored by the sedate Y.W.C.A.

Sister Ingels, much to the admiration of upperclassmen, led the activities with a fine balance of severity and leniency, although certain wayward freshies probably thought it was wholly the former. Although accused by the Freshmen women of trying to protect its own male interests, the committee held firmly to a program of bonnets, bangs, and unconcealed blemishes.

Always plenty active until as usual someone's misinformed mother put the bee on it, the committee actually accomplished a great deal in acquainting the freshmen with themselves and with the upper-class women.

BUNDY HALL COUNCIL

"Gentlemen, the council will now turn its attention to the business at hand." With these words the Honorable President brings his cohorts to life, or at least he hopes to. Reluctant noses peer out from behind Esquire, Saturday Evening Post, and Life. The dormitory bed, undergoing its supreme test, creaks under the hulks of disciplinarians attired in everything from anything to practically nothing.

Heated discussions on pertinent questions follow; and, as usual, nothing is solved by them. The paddle produces an impression upon those individuals who have overlooked certain regulations. After the completion of business, the Council, like a bunch of hungry savages, trroups downstairs to the "gift" shop to eat—through the kindness of an unsuspecting new member.

The council is the government of Bundy Hall, it regulates the conduct of men students about the campus and in the dormitory. It refrains from being a police force, using its power only when necessary for the welfare of the Student.

A. W. S. BOARD

Memories return of roll call meetings in the parlor, of long discussions while we sit on the hard floor, of Prexy Sinnie pounding on the piano keys, of Miss Long echoing Miss Comstock, of lollipops and apples to refresh tired girls and make their problems seem less important.

Echoes resound of complaints heard for years: "Second east is too noisy"; "Why can't we have late per for dances?" But then we remember that new ping-pong table in the association room, too.

Board meeting carried with it an air of responsibility and many an anxious co-ed has awaited its verdict with crossed fingers.

But the Board did not only hand down judgments. The dinner dances with the soft light of candles remain a memory not soon to be forgotten—a memory of tables and chairs piled against the walls, the dining room transformed miraculously into a ballroom.

After a successful year of democratic government, the joyful Board members entertained their successors with a gala picnic, took leave of their duties and stepped down from their pedestals.

STUDENT SENATE

Student Senate is theoretically a representative body, chosen from the entire student body. It is the go-between organization, tying up all the activities on the campus, sitting in judgment on questions that pertain to the entire student body, and working with the faculty to make improvements necessary for the happiness of the entire Earlham family. In brief, the members try to be the trouble busters, and the Mr. Fixits.

Among their diverse activities are included: directing Campus Clean-up and Homecoming, sponsoring of Friday chapels, and purchasing of new roller skates (guaranteed to fit if your feet are mates) and a radio-phonograph for the Student's Parlor. The Senate enterprise which most intimately concerns a large body of students is the frugal dinner. Surprisingly, one gets as much to eat on that occasion as on any other. The saving is such that a considerable sum can be sent to some extremely distant foreign country for relief purposes.

POST ADVISORY BOARD

The Post Advisory Board was created at the same time that the Earham Post was founded, for the purpose of assisting the editorial and business staffs and determining the general policy of the Post. The Board also conducts the election for Editor-in-chief and Business Manager of the Post, and is responsible for the expenditure of Post funds. This year the Advisory Board enjoyed several delightful dinner meetings at the home of Dr. Ruby Davis, faculty advisor to the Board.

Since the Advisory Board is a social as well as a technological asset to the Post Staff, it has no social functions of its own but always manages to be present at dinner-dances, picnics and parties given by the Post and E. A. P.

Regular meetings are held monthly, at which time the difficulties attendant upon newspaper publishing, such as typographical errors, staff personnel, and how to stay out of the red without printing cigarette ads, are discussed and settled.

PHOENIX

President Ingels strikes the gavel, and the ladies of Phoenix come to order—that is, most of them do, and the rest will be “glared” into order immediately by the President. The roll is called, and Cosand answers with an eastern accent, while absentees at the last meeting search for valid excuses.

“We must do something to raise money!” “Could we have a coke machine in the dorm?” “The following is the committee for Parents’ Day.” (Pause in business while Daggy pays a penalty for some usual misdemeanor.) To continue, “We will have the report of the committee for the May Day Dance,” which is the best dance of the year.

Now for the program—it may go from the ridiculous to the sublime: “The Women,” or Mike’s review of “Hamlet;” and when the program chairman passes out “chocolate covered ice cream on sticks” the report of the critics is always favorable.

There is a motion for adjournment and the oldest organization on campus closes another Thursday evening literary enlightenment.

IONIAN

Once a fortnight the gentlemen of Ionian lump together their collective intellects for a session of sympathetic study of one another's minds. The purpose of the society is to learn the proceedings of Parliamentary Law and to air views of literature, past and contemporary. These Thursday night meetings, conducted under strict observance of Robert's Rules of Order, have been known to paralyze the diaphragms of its members. Meetings are taken very seriously really, but over all the seriousness of the organization is a husk of fun and frivolity making it a very worthwhile type of society. Ionian exists under the strong and helpful approbation of President Dennis to which it points with a touch of pride. Earlham men are proud to be members of Ionian because it tolerates no little minds and it is a group that spits its thoughts as they come, fresh from the minds that thought them.

AS THE WINTER WINDS DRIVE US INDOORS, THE EARLHAM HALL PARLORS BECOME THE CENTERS OF SOCIAL ACTIVITY. ALL THROUGH THE DAY, AND PARTICULARLY AFTER DINNER, THOSE FORTUNATES WHO ARE NOT COMPELLED BY NECESSITY OR CONSCIENCE TO PURSUE LIFE AND LIBERTY ELSEWHERE, ARE HERE PURSUING HAPPINESS WITH PING-PONG, RADIO, PIANO, OR "JUST SITTING." THE GREATEST ACTIVITY IS BETWEEN THE CLOSING OF THE LIBE, AND THE BLINKING OF THE LIGHTS, REMINDING US THAT IT IS AGAIN TIME FOR "SWEET SORROW."

THE SEASON

The Earlham Basketball team finished an average season with a record of 8 victories and 10 defeats, which, however, is better than most Maroon basketball teams have done recently. The outstanding senior member of the team was Captain Dave Keyser who was fittingly awarded the "E" blanket at the end of the season. Captain "Kise" deserved to write a better season record on the books and would have done so but for the failure of several experienced teammates to give him support. The result was that Huntsman had to depend on several freshmen, who, although unusually good as Freshmen, had not developed the aggressiveness necessary in college competition. For the first time in many years three freshmen were able to earn their letters and although this bodes ill for the past, it certainly brightens the future for Captain-elect Dick Wright and Phil Ortwein who will play their third year on the Varsity in 1940-41.

The team started the season by winning the first three games in fine fashion. Rose Tech defended effectively during the first half but tired badly and Earlham romped away from them in the closing period. One of the best games was at Oxford against Miami in which we trailed closely for the first 30 minutes. Then after Keyser and Watt tied the score, Ortwein connected in the extra period to give us the decision. Since Miami last year was champion of the Ohio Conference, this game raised our expectations immensely but somewhat prematurely. We next played Taylor University on our own floor. They were stronger than usual this year and were in much better condition than we, by virtue of their early season games. The game was fast and shooting extremely inaccurate, and although we were never far behind, there was no doubt about the outcome.

The next two games were lost to Franklin and Ball State. On our own floor we managed to stay ahead of Franklin due to the work of Ortwain and Wright. But the visitors unlimbered a quick rally which put them ahead with only 10 seconds to play and our only shot failed. At Muncie the team hooked into the tough Ball State crowd which is just as good without the Rudicels. They lost by 12 points to a superior team always at its best against Earlham.

Mills Scores Against DePauw

JUNIOR VARSITY AND FRESHMAN SQUADS

Bell, Gordon, Renshaw, D. White, G. Jones, Jordan, Ellington, T. Johnson, Knose

During the last week of Christmas vacation the team took a trip east and played three Pennsylvania teams, losing two games and winning one. We lost to Grove City in a double overtime by one point, and the next night we won from Susquehanna by a single point. At Swarthmore we were defeated in a good game due to weariness and loss of Cliff Watt through injury.

Between vacation and exams we won from Wilmington and N.C.A.-G.U. on our own floor. The Wilmington game was a one point overtime victory in which freshman Dehoney showed his calibre. Against N.C.A.G.U. the subs romped to an easy win.

Racked by sickness and injury to Captain Keyser we lost four successive games. The first, against Evansville, should have been an Earlham victory, but the poorest shooting of the year with the loss of several regulars made this game a melancholy affair. In a return game Miami scored from every direction and without Keyser to take the rebounds we were unable to stop them. Ortwein and Watt were the only regulars not in bed or in the stands when we took on Wabash and despite a fine showing by freshmen Mills and Anderson we lost convincingly.

The team made a trip to Terre Haute and Greencastle to play Rose Tech and DePauw. The engineers apparently planned their game accurately as they reversed their earlier defeat at our hands by a discomfiting score. Against DePauw, with Keyser back in uniform and playing the best game of his career, we took things in hand and routed the foe.

Wabash played a return game in Trueblood Field House, and, as usual came from behind to win. Dick Wright kept us in the game with his brilliant shooting, but he couldn't score as fast as five Wabash men. In our second game with DePauw Keyser again rang the bell consistently and with the help of Wright and Mills, set the visitors down decisively.

Ball State had beaten us seven straight times since we have been at Earlham and this game was to be one we would long remember. As a matter of fact we shall never forget it—the worst of many lickings in Earlham basketball history.

HONORARY VARSITY

Sharpless, Dulaney, Turner, Lippincott, Coppock, Meader, Cosand, Miller

CLASS CHAMPS FRESHMEN

Hornbrook, Kratz, Steen, Hamm, Evans, Pennell, Cromer

Interest in Basketball reached a new high under the capable management of Jane Dulaney during the 1940 season. The freshmen with two full teams to play took a decisive victory in the double round tournament, so consequently they were furnished with only slight competition. The seniors were next in line with their six "old faithfuls," being conquered only by the freshmen. Winding up the court record were the juniors and sophomores respectively.

Scores of play were:

Freshmen	35-29	Seniors	19-21
Freshmen	23-25	Juniors	21-15
Freshmen	41-32	Sophomores	11-20
Seniors	26-31	Juniors	17-14
Seniors	46-25	Sophomores	26-21
Sophomores	27- 6	Juniors	35-20

The season was brought to a close with the annual basketball banquet. At this time each class captain gave a verbal contribution defending her own team. The climax of the evening was the announcement of the honorary varsity team. The basketball enthusiasts to receive this honor were: Charleen Cosand, Jane Dulaney, Dorothy Sharpless, Gertrude Lippincott, Ruth Coppock, Jane Turner, Jane Meader, and Eleanor Miller.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

White, Reeder, McBrady, Kratz, Miller, Fuller.

Swimming this year was lead in speed, form and experience by Earlham's mermaid, Marilyn Miller. The swimming lasses participated in the Cincinnati Play Day and won second place in their division. At this time Marilyn won the forty yard free style in the record time of 24.4 seconds. Also outstanding at this meet were Liz White, Dotty Reeder, Lois Fuller, Jeanne McBrady, and Sara Kratz.

Under the leadership of Manager Jo Ann Martin, E.C. had one of the largest enrollments in its swimming classes. Along with a lot of fun much was accomplished in progress for all. This was proved when Earlham placed fifth in the Central Intercollegiate telegraphic meet in which fifteen mid-western colleges and universities participated.

The Sophomores won the yearly inter-class meet, bringing the season to a close. A feature of this meet was a style show (for girls only) demonstrating the trend in bathing suits—from the all-enveloping garments of yesterday to a cellophane creation of tomorrow.

TRIAL BY JURY

A combination of the trial scene from "Pickwick" and the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Trial By Jury" might suggest a trying situation. Audience and actors alike enjoyed the rolling good-humor, to the extent that little genuine emotion of sympathy was felt with the defendants. Prof. Morgan was the personification of all our ideas of Pickwick—in fact the entire cast could have just stepped out of Dickens. As for the operetta, Gilbert and Sullivan could never be dull and this special cast caught the spirit of the piece and was at the same time lovely and ridiculous.

So the curtain rang down and the verdict of the audience was that the trying situation had been a success.

TRIAL SCENE FROM PICKWICK

CHOIR

There is a song that Professor Cox can sing under any circumstances, but the choir is not quite that good. It has to rehearse. Four times each week its fifty members get together to read, "bone on," and polish passages from Gallus Dressler to Christianssen. "And you can't sing this stuff unless you work on it OUTSIDE."

After "Trial by Jury" came the Christmas program with chorals, arias, and choruses from "The Messiah." Professor Cox decided that he wanted to hear how his group sounded over the air, so he became desperately ill, and the choir sang under a baton wielded by Manager Randall. And we all still love "The Messiah."

Last but not least, there was a choir tour during Spring Vacation. The choristers haven't said much about the actual concerts, but we have heard a great deal about "jump" seats in a certain Greyhound bus, sandwiches, jello, and Alka-Seltzer. Nausea!

MEN'S DEBATE TEAM

The members of the men's debate team did a lot of things this year, one of which was talk. They met debate teams from about twenty other schools from both Indiana and Ohio. And when it was necessary, the team divided and debated with itself, all too seldom for some of the members.

But debating is only an unimportant detail to men's debate teams. For practice debates are not practice debates, but bull sessions. And tournament trips are not tournament trips, but just a chance to get acquainted with fellows from other schools who are there to get acquainted with you.

Columbus? Oh, yes, that's where each team debated seven times in twenty four hours. But that's incidental. Columbus is the home of the Glass Bowl; it's the place where an anonymous debater walked in with the Earlham library's only copy of Who's Who; and it's the place where Robertson lost a debate because of the unfortunately beautiful Madame Chairman.

McConaha, Daggy, C. Robinson, Jo Ann Martin

WOMEN'S DEBATE TEAM

After cramming from economics text-books, reading all of the available material, and questioning everyone on the campus, the team met Capitol University for its first opposition, debating the question, Resolved; that legislation should be enacted providing for conscription of wealth in time of war. Later they met Ohio University and Wittenberg College and exchanged evidence, or as one judge put it, facts, dates, figures, and proper nouns.

The Ohio League Tournament, at Capitol University, provided stiff competition for the A and B teams. However, the A team tied with Wittenberg for second place and the B team received a rating of "good."

The season was brought to a successful close when the Earlham negative team traveled to Greencastle and won a decision over one of Earlham's arch rivals, DePauw University. At the same time, here on the campus, the Earlham affirmative team was also victorious over DePauw's negative debaters.

ORATORY

JO ANN MARTIN, with an oration entitled "Golden Windows," took first place in the women's division in both the local and state Old Line Oratorical Contests, and represented Indiana at the national contest.

LOWELL COX won first place in the men's division of the Old Line Oratorical Contest at Earlham, and took second place in the state contest.

TOM LACEY was the winner of the Fall Extempore Contest.

JAMES WILSON won first place in the Spring Extempore Contest.

DAY DODGERS

That happy group of Earlhamites who go home nights and sleep in their own comfy beds are the Day Dodgers. They chug back and to daily in search of higher learning and extra-curricular activities.

The Day Dodgers constitute a large part of the student body and have organized in order to further their own best interests. Their organization and their representation in all forms of student government have brought them more closely into the unity of the college community.

Their two dens of antiquity in the dormitories have been furnished for minutes of study, hours of leisure, and days of general gossip.

According to them they have done much to maintain the high scholarship of the various classes. Without their contributions, the athletic teams would be sadly lacking in man power and in consistent support at the games.

Because of the constant narrowing of distances, the Day Dodgers are year by year becoming a more permanent part of Earlham daily life. Their cars are in great demand and their homes are a delight to steak-starved dorm students.

Lucky is he who calls a Day Dodger his friend.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Annual Science Club Brawl started off according to ancient tradition with the customary Sunday night supper on Monday night—chicken salad sandwiches, frozen peas, avocado salad, and strawberry shortcake. (This is a lie, but we are tired of seeing the same old menu consisting of hamburgers, potato chips, baked beans, etc., in former Sargassos.) After this little snack, erudite members of the club discussed the weighty subject matter of their various departments. Other such enlightening programs maintained this high standard in the meetings throughout the year. At the suggestion of a custom-loving senior, the contest for the best scientific papers was revived. A trip to Dayton, a supper meeting with the Philosophy Forum, and teas after the meetings finished both the activities and the committees in charge.

CAMERA CLUB

The Camera Club finally came into its own this year with the acquisition of a darkroom. Through the generosity of an alumnus, Mr. R. W. Barrett, the long-awaited hour of really getting it under construction finally arrived. The blasting, drilling, and excavating were accomplished during Thanksgiving Vacation, and, by the time camera enthusiasts returned to the Alma Mater, the darkroom was gracing one end of the bacteriology laboratory.

In spite of other activities, club members managed to get together their annual exhibit, which opened on Parents' Day in the Faculty Parlor. The prints were judged by Glen Bull '39, and Miss Castator received first prize, the Myrick Gold Medal. Other prizes were awarded to Heiner Maier, Royden Parke, Clarence Parker, and President Dennis. The regular meetings were enriched by illustrated lectures from the Eastman Company, and also included demonstrations for the beginners.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET

Sister Hogle peers over the top of the big desk and Y.W. Cabinet meeting is formally in session. After an inspiring devotional service in which "Cornelia" Ingels renders "Patterns," plans for the big and little sister party, fall style show, chapel program, etc., are mangled and pressed into their final form.

The fruits of these private discussions blossomed forth publicly into such events as the Christmas Bazaar. Also rushed into the pre-Christmas season was the frantic preparation of grinnies, soon to be grimy, rag dolls for Kentucky children.

Mountain influence carried over into social affairs in the form of barn dances (caller and all), sponsored with the Y.M.

Shylock Swanie, with an eye for business, took over the time-consuming task of Geneva cupboard. As a result of her perserverance several girls will spend a delightful two weeks at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

After a year of many and varied activities the Cabinet retired just in time to let the incoming Cabinet stage a successful May Day.

Only time can tell what masterpieces will come to light in the tense atmosphere of an Anglican meeting. One of the oldest of Earlham organizations, it exists for and by Earlham literature. The twenty members, in their annual SCRAPBOOK, printed for the first time this year, give to the world the cream of their talent, and furnish a vehicle by which any Earlhamite may have his work published, if it is good enough. A new project this year was a literary supplement to the Christmas issue of the Post.

"To initiate, foster, and encourage journalistic endeavor on the Earlham campus" is the purpose of Epsilon Alpha Pi, honorary journalistic society, better known as E. A. P. Three semesters' work on the Earlham Post, chairmanship of the Freshman Handbook, or editorship of the Sargasso brings eligibility for membership. Activities include sponsoring a chapel program and a closed dance with the Post and Sargasso staffs.

THE SEASON

The Earlham baseball team this year is a veteran outfit with the exception of one position which shifts from third base to first base to left field. Coach Van Dyke, onetime Washington Senator third baseman, has maneuvered his team so well that the eight veterans and one rookie are at present leading the Conference, having won six games and lost two. The team took a trip into the south during spring vacation and was not so impressive that early in the season, losing three and winning one making their total record seven won and five lost. However, we are much pleased with their batting in the last two games in which they beat Wabash for the first time in E. C. history and utterly routed the league-leading Indiana Central Greyhounds. On the southern trip the team met the Eastern Kentucky Teacher's team first and lost 7-0 to the best opposition of the season. They moved on to Maryville College and lost 4-3 on errors in ten innings. At Hiawasee they lost 8-7 after another group of errors. At Lincoln Memorial they finally won a game 6-4 with a four run rally in the ninth inning and two runs in the tenth.

The team came home with a vastly changed opinion of the Earlham cuisine, having found that there regions in the world where milk, butter, eggs and ice-cream are the exception rather than the rule. After nearly two weeks of indoor practice and postponed games due to the caprice of Indiana weather, the team went to Crawfordsville and lost a five inning game 2-0.

We hate to disparage constantly the handling of athletic contests at Wabash but almost inevitably something happens to create grounds for editorializing, and this time the game was called when Earlham had men on the bases and the Wabash pitcher had nothing on the ball but his finger prints. However, it was very cloudy. A week later the team went to Butler University and sent the Hinklemen to the showers thoroughly beaten. The score was 7-6 but the Earlham runs were batted in, while most of Butler's were booted in. Outstanding was the batting of Cloyd, Zimmerman and Garoffolo. Guy Jones was credited with the victory.

The next two games were played on Van Dyke field. The first, with Ball State, we won 7-3 behind Rollf's well-aimed curves. The second game, with St. Joseph College, we lost 6-2.

The team went to Upland and won a sloppy game from Taylor University. Though not very high in the Conference Taylor is always tough on their own field where fielding a grounder is like trying to catch an Earlham cockroach—you never know where it's going next. The next three games were played on Van Dyke field. The team defeated DePauw 9-7. It was a onesided affair until Keyser eased up in the eighth and permitted four runs to score. In a return game with Wabash the team came from behind twice, in the ninth and tenth innings, to win. Zimmerman tied the score in the ninth with a home run after two were out, and after Wabash scored twice in the tenth,

Parker tripped and Garoffolo singled to tie the score. Then with the bases loaded Federico ended the game with a drive that went out of sight into the orchard. The game with Indiana Central was anticipated with excitement as it necessarily would influence the championship of the Conference. But it became boring when less than half over as Earlham scored two, three and one runs, respectively, in the first three innings and then all but two men batted twice in the fourth to score eleven runs. The final score was 17-4 and the victory put Earlham at the top of the Conference. The final game with Ball State was rained out.

The 1940 track team depended largely on the performances of three seniors and one freshman in winning three out of the six meets participated in to date. The class of '40 boasts three Earlham record holders, although the record breaking performances were all made in their sophomore and junior years. Johnnie Balestrieri set the present javelin record of 177 feet 10 inches when a sophomore, and the same year came within an inch of equalling the broad jump record. As a junior Winnie Walker pole vaulted 12 feet 4 inches to set a new record in that event. Also as a junior Captain Dave Hawk set a record of 2:01.9 for the half mile although his specialty in the 440 yard dash. Along with these three consistent winners stands Tony Diaz who runs the mile and two mile and wins consistently although he has not broken any records. Since their sophomore year these four men have scored a majority of all of Earlham's points and certainly will be hard to replace.

The freshman find is Rex Anderson who high jumps and runs the hurdles. We expect him to set at least one Earlham record as he has already cleared 6 feet in the high jump. Other commendable performances have been turned in by Hylton, in the shot put and discus throw; Tony Johnson in the dashes; and Hamilton in the mile and two mile runs.

TENNIS

Led by Captain Don Maris the tennis team won five matches and lost three for its best season since 1935. Maris was unbeaten this year in the Conference and was ceded third in the State Tournament held at Purdue where he blasted his way into the finals by defeating last year's champion, Bill Fay of Notre Dame. He lost to Canale, a Notre Dame sophomore who was undefeated this year in Big Ten competition. We are duly proud of the fact that the class of '40 has another Earlham champion in its midst who is as fine a gentleman as any college can boast.

Four lettermen, Barnard, Wood, Johnson, and Renshaw, will return next year. The other letter winner this year was Ed "Abie" Borton, a senior who boasts (literally) a .500 average in matches won and lost.

GOLF

The golf team was unable to continue its undefeated record of the past two seasons and finished with a record of four matches won and four lost. As usual Captain Dick Wright led the team and was ably backed by Myron Corsi. Dave Garrison and Bob Sielken, both freshmen made the team this year. Earlham will have a veteran team next year as all four will be back.

The outstanding event of the season was the State Tournament held in Richmond with Earlham as host. Wright again won the Conference individual championship, but Butler replaced Earlham as team champions. The State individual champion was won by Walter Hagen, Jr. of Notre Dame whose team also captured state honors.

The Varsity Club is composed of those athletes who have won one or more letters in any intercollegiate sport. After winning a letter, prospective members are voted into the club and subjected to an initiation ritual unparalleled in the history of Quaker severity. Diabolical persecution runs to such expression as compelling a pledge to hunt for a letter in the dark or depriving him of cigarettes for 24 hours. But Earlham athletes can take it, and after they have survived the initiation they are accorded all rights and privileges attendant upon the attainment of recognition as an "all right guy."

Each year the club gives a fall dance and a spring dance, at which times "E" blankets are given to the outstanding senior football and basketball player. This year the football blanket went to Co-Captain Johnnie Balestrieri and the basketball blanket was presented to Captain Dave Keyser. Besides these activities the Varsity Club gives a banquet each spring in honor of all participants in spring sports. Sometimes there is held an informal get-together in the spring when the fellows are given an opportunity to know each other more intimately. It is rumored, however, that this activity will be banned, at least until the class of '43 has graduated as this year some of the fellows drank too much Coca-Cola and ice water and the party was a bit rowdy. The club raises a large part of its revenue by operating peanut and pop concessions at athletic contests.

This year the organization voted to give keys to seniors who have been in the Club at least 2 semesters and who attended at least two thirds of all the meetings. The keys will also be sold to any former members who may desire them.

A brother organization of the Varsity Club is the Double E Club to which may belong men who have won letters in two or more sports. Being an honorary organization it has no activities of its own other than giving recognition to more versatile athletes.

TRACK

Due to rainy weather and baseball being put off, not much time was left for track. Under the capable leadership of Tommy Roberts the meet was run off May 22 and 23. Lois Fuller was crowned Track Queen, having the honor of being winner in the individual events. The sophomores, with Miss Fuller dashing back and to, managed to win the meet. Jean Ann Hamm pulled the freshmen through to take second place. Charleen Cosand lead the seniors, and Estelle Burton the juniors. Two records were broken this year by freshmen. Jean Ann Hamm hurled the discus for a new record, after being coached by Joe Balestrieri. The basketball whirled through the air for a new mark from the hand of Dorothy Steen. Winners of other events were: 50 yard dash, Lois Fuller; 75 yard dash, Marilyn Miller; Low hurdles, Lois Fuller; High hurdles, Anne Milburn and Ruth Binns; Javelin, Emily Squires; Baseball distance throw, Sarah Hornbrook. The sophomores and freshmen tied for first place in the class relay.

RIDING

During the year many riders and horse enthusiasts took riding tests. The Round-up of the riders was the meet held May 31. Good horsemanship was shown in all the divisions, the beginners, intermediates, and advanced riders. Events of the show included relays, form riding, and mounting and dismounting for form.

HIKING

In spite of the busy times of a college student, some people find time to travel by the ankle express. W. A. A. points are given to each girl who hikes one hundred miles. Ruth Coppock, manager, arranged several hikes during the year. The hikes were open to everyone and in spite of the sore limbs, dragging feet, and blisters many had good times. The hikers took in such places as Twin Falls, Wyatt's Creek, and the new college farm near Whitewater.

BASEBALL

Dashing to and fro between rains, the lasses of the diamond managed to play off the baseball tournament under the direction of Manager Ina Mae Reagan. There was a lot of fast pitching, good catching and hard hitting. The freshmen, with Mauvis Johnson as their leader, came through undefeated. Pudge Miller ran herself ragged trying to get a senior team together, but when she did they managed to take second place. The captain of the junior team was Gertie Lippincott and the sophomores were lead by Thea Briggs. Members of the winning team were: Sarah Hornbrook, Sara Kratz, Peggy Blackburn, Dorothy Steen, Ruth Kenoyer, Emily Squires, Della Bogue, Ruth Cromer, Elinor Pennell, Eleanor Evans, Anna Hays, Mirian Betz, and Mauvis Johnson.

ARCHERY

There has been quite a bit of wear and tear on the archery targets this spring. Valarie Barrows, Marcia Binford, Julia Sperling, and many others participated in the Intercollegiate Telegraphic Meet held late in May. Archery has been one of the most popular individual sports at Earlham for several years.

TENNIS

Almost everyone in Earlham swings a racquet or at least has a desire to do so. Every time it stopped raining this year there was a mad rush for a court. The two new courts behind Earlham Hall which were reserved for the girls were much appreciated. Betty Taylor had charge of this year's very successful tournament.

E AND EE CLUBS

Women's athletic awards are made at the annual W. A. A. banquet held early in June. The first award is the numeral, received by those having 500 points. The E Club requires 1,000 points and the EE Club, 2,000 points. To receive the EE award a girl must participate in at least three sports and be a member of an honorary varsity. Members of the EE Club are: Virginia Bascom, Jane Hancock, Ruth Coppock, Charleen Cosand, and Eleanor Miller. To belong to the E Club a girl must play on class teams and be active in three major sports. The following have received this honor: Anne Magruder, Jane Meader, Eleanor Miller, Tommy Roberts, Jane Hancock, Virginia Bascom, Charleen Cosand, Betty Taylor, Ina Mae Reagan, Betty Humphrey, Ruth Coppock, and Margaret Sinclair. Several other girls will receive these awards at the end of the year.

Hancock, Cosand, Coppock, Miller, Bascom

E. C. CLUB

The E. C. Club is composed of those women students who have earned at least 3000 points by participating in four or more sports. They must also be named on two honorary varsity teams. This year the club is composed entirely of seniors, two of whom, Jane Hancock and Virginia Bascom, won membership as juniors. Ruth Coppock was admitted the first semester of this year, and Pudge Miller and Charleen Cosand were awarded their jackets in June.

E. C. girls are noted for their fine sportsmanship and courtesy, and they always invite their opponents to go for a walk in the cemetery after a clean, hard game. There is nothing like sucking a lemon and taking a walk off the campus to give one a lift. E. C. girls go to bed early too. They are the nucleus of all Earlham women's teams, which have an enviable record in intercollegiate competition.

 SECOND ROW: Hancock, Martin, Anders, Sperling, Meader

W. A. A. BOARD

The Board of the Women's Athletic Association is responsible for all activities having any connection with athletics. This year was a busy one, for the hockey and basketball season were ones of strong competition. The hockey varsity team was honored by being invited to play an exhibition game at Purdue, and, incidentally, they won to maintain a perfect record. The victory over the North Shore team, combined with the High School Hockey Playday on the same day, and followed by a tea in the Lodge for the visiting team kept the entire board on its toes.

The Seniors surprised the other classes by sending complete teams into the fray, the Juniors were consistently good as expected, the Sophomores saved their faces by coming thru at the swimming meet and the Freshmen showed some really great skill, especially at baseball.

The W. A. A. Banquet wound up the activities of the year as numerals and letters were presented to deserving winners. The various classes were rewarded for their efforts, and Betty Humphrey was named E. C. girl.

LITTLE Y CABINET

Little Y, as the name suggests, is the little sister of the Y. W. C. A. which acts as a guiding influence. All Freshman women automatically become members of little Y as an introductory step toward membership in the more active and more mature sister organization. The Little Y Cabinet is chosen from the ranks of the Freshman women and has a cabinet member to correspond to each of the cabinet members of Y. W. C. A. It is the duty of these cabinet members to cooperate with Big Y and to lend assistance when it is needed—or to do the dirty work when called upon. Little Y members are often asked to act upon committees for some project which Big Y is sponsoring. Little Y Tearoom has become a precedent and is carried on throughout the year at a specified time each week. Having shown an ability to handle the food problem, Little Y members were drafted to serve as waitresses for the May Day breakfast.

REPUBLICAN CLUB

The last babble of a political rally subsided from the edges of the camp-fire as the annual Republican picnic broke up and the staunch enthusiasts started for home still talking of the glories of their party as presented by Hornaday, Republican candidate for Indiana legislature. In the off election year our interest has been centered around the primaries and the coming critical Presidential election. We of the Lincoln Club welcome all who are interested in supporting the principles of the Republican party and in opposing New Deal idiosyncracies. We have the wholehearted endorsement of our college president. We can boast of the kind of people you would like to know and of the kind of policy you would like to back. Our purpose is to maintain a sustained interest in public affairs, and preserve the fundamental principles of liberty and equality of opportunity for all. I. M. R. & T. L.

DEMOCRAT CLUB

For the first time in the history of Earlham, the Democrats have gained supremacy of the political factions that are alive on the campus. Not only is the Democrat Club the largest of the political parties here, but it can also proudly boast of the largest paid membership of all organizations in Earlham Campus life.

The highlight of the semester functions was the coming of Democratic State Chairman Fred F. Bays, and his talented group of professional entertainers. A program was given that drew a huge crowd including delegations from more than twenty counties. It was considered to be not only one of the best Wayne County Programs of the year, but also to be tops as far as political programs at Earlham was concerned. Believing that good government is a necessity for the preservation of Democracy, the Earlham Democrat Club has wholeheartedly pledged its support to the crusade for clean politics and good government throughout this state and nation.

STUDENT PEACE VOLUNTEERS

The Student Peace Volunteers, organized on the Earlham campus to promote an active interest in peace and international conciliation, is primarily a "peace action" group.

Regular meetings are held every Thursday noon in the East Dining Room. Business sessions alternate with sessions to which guest speakers are invited.

The Student Volunteers attempt to provide a positive means of expression for peace philosophy. Projects sponsored during the past year include: the production of two plays, one of which was written by Earl Fowler, a member; two panel discussion teams; a series of 32 weekly radio programs; the sending of delegates to seven conferences. The organization during the last semester has helped with the new refugee camp at Quaker Hill, and this summer will send five of its members to the American Friends Service Committee work camps.

Twenty performances of the plays have been given in 18 cities. During the year members participating in peace work have covered approximately 3500 miles in Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois.

Earlham has two national honorary fraternities of which Tau Kappa Alpha is one. This small group is composed of the most active, persuasive, and windy speakers on the campus. Membership in this honorary fraternity, Pi Epsilon Delta, more commonly known as National Collegiate Players, is considered the peak of attainment in the field of dramatics. The entrance demands are strict ones, as is evidenced by the size of the organization, but every wearer of the gold key is amply repaid for his or her efforts by the honor and pride which accompany ownership of the key.

MASK AND MANTLE

The members of Mask and Mantle are a happy bunch of Thespians and stage hand who produce two big plays a year and sponsor innumerable one act productions which are much in demand at churches, schools, and club meetings. Due to the careful supervision of several self-appointed custodians of public morals in this vicinity, all of the plays given are very virtuous indeed and totally lacking in improper words or objectionable scenes. It will probably be fifteen years before another bar room scene appears on Goddard Stage.

Mask and Mantle sponsored a play writing contest this year which drew forth hidden talent in the persons of Jeannie Funkhouser, Elinor Pennell, and Louis Marstaller, who received first, second, and third prize respectively. These plays were presented to a paying audience Saturday, May 18, in Goddard Auditorium.

The organization's biggest social event of the year was the spring dinner-dance held at Eaton Country Club where senior members bade farewell to the club, next year's officers were announced, and Prof. Morgan was presented with a curly red wig.

SISTER BEATRICE

On the evening of Parents' Day, April 27, Mask and Mantle presented Maurice Maeterlinck's Miracle play "Sister Beatrice" in Goddard Auditorium.

The scene of the play was in a convent where dwelt in seclusion the nuns who daily came to pray before the Holy Virgin. One of the nuns, Sister Beatrice, was lured away by the love of Prince Bellidor, and for twenty-five years her duties and loving acts were performed by the Virgin who had come to life to protect Sister Beatrice. At the end of this time the nuns found that the Virgin had been restored to her pedestal for Sister Beatrice had returned to die after many years of unhappiness and sin. The sisters did not believe the ravings of the delirious Beatrice when she told them of her life for they believed her to have been with them every day. In her last hours she was comforted and forgiven.

Dorothy Myrick, as the statue of the Virgin, showed unbelievable talent for a college production and June Griswold, in her first major role as Sister Beatrice, completely lived the anguish and unhappiness of the unfortunate nun. All the members of Mask and Mantle took part in the production and each added his bit to the great success of the undertaking.

Please note that the leer on Master Toppin's face in the above picture is not characteristic of all Earlham artists.

PROBIES

The Royal Order of the Proboscis is a secret organization which compares favorably with other such depraved and degenerate organizations as the Goons and the Issimos. Membership and rank are determined by nose displacement and peculiarity of profile appearance. Marstaller, Hawk, Durkee and Gingery are among the higher ups in the group, but the sheer grotesqueness of Borton's nasal appendage has assured him of perpetually presidency of the order.

A small group, enamoured of the ancient world, excavated the Classical Club, buried in the debris of campus activities since 1925. These archaeophiles, supposedly acquiring culture, picnicked and attended lectures and movies in their search for antediluvian knowledge. All of which goes to prove that, in spite of their interest in the past, they are a lively group.

BAND

Director.....A. O. Vioni
Band Captain.....Fred Kuethe

The Earlham Band was a small organization until Billie Eckey and her bull fiddle joined up. Mr. Vioni has, however, done a fine job with the limited amount of material available. The snappy tunes of the band and occasional epithets of the director have enlivened many of our athletic contests. We hear that Tracy is dedicating to Mr. Vioni a composition entitled "My Wind in Your Hair."

STRING ENSEMBLE

Director.....F. K. Hicks

String Ensemble, under the direction of Prof. Fred Hicks is the smallest of Earlham's musical organizations but one of the steadiest. Throughout the year the ensemble gives programs at Earlham and high schools near the college. Several of its members appeared in solos, duets and trios with the choir on the spring tour, and added variety in the form of instrumental numbers.

PHILOSOPHY FORUM

"This is not a debate"—theme of every forum. As in the case of all true philosophical gatherings, our purpose is to seek out the truth, and not to award a bouquet to the most eloquent speaker. The Forum tries to offer opportunity for discussion of those questions of student interest which are not included in any regular academic course. Students and faculty alike led the discussions on "Why Be Moral?" and "Can the scientific method save our civilization?" (a joint meeting with Science Club and steaks).

The Social Science Club in one short year has become one of the most active clubs on the campus. It is composed of any who are studying or are interested in the Social Sciences.

Their great project of the year was the trip which they sponsored to Chicago to visit banks, stock markets, and things. The trip was well chaperoned by Professor and Mrs. Fosler.

One of their programs consisted of a debate on the Wagner Act, in which a C. I. O. organizer took part. The final meeting was a banquet to which all were invited.

MAY DAY

Following her ancient English heritage, Earlham once more celebrated May Day. A throng of Earlhamites, gathered in the chilly morning air, waited anxiously for the appearance of the May Queen and her attendants. At last the procession started from the library, and a burst of applause greeted Esther Dougherty and John Bland, as May Queen and Robin Hood. These two, preceded by the colorful Queen's court, Sophomore May Pole dancers, and "gaily prancing" hobby horses, made their way across the hearts and up to the throne at the front of Earlham Hall. Here to the clicking of camera shutters, the Queen was crowned by the president of W. A. A., otherwise known as Eleanor Miller, alias "Pudge." The May Pole dancers then wound their bright streamers into intricate patterns for the admiration of the spectators. After posing again for camera fans, the Queen's court led the way to the dining room for the traditional May breakfast.

SENIOR PICNIC

Any attempt to fly the coop this year necessitated a master mind. Never before was there such a system of eavesdropping, shadowing, and other indiscreet practices carried on by the underclassmen. At least we can say the scare and even the getaway were successful. On Sunday night, May 12th, the seniors succeeded, by various means and schemes, in ridding themselves of the last lowly spy. By round about trails through alleys and back roads, they at last arrived at the gate where only acquaintances of Josephine could enter. After a long ride through heavily wooded tracts, they came to the Leeds' lodge. It became evident before long, however, that the seniors weren't the only ones coming into the private rendezvous. Unscrupulous underclassmen, having obtained a map by means we shall not mention, pieced it together and arrived at the spot before the last car of Seniors. They were given a warm reception by heated seniors and permitted to explore the cellar while food was being prepared for them. After a few dozen hot dogs apiece, they gained strength to remedy a little car trouble and to hurry off to notify their unsuspecting fellow underclassmen!

Thus an otherwise inaccessible spot became available to droves of youngsters. Having sent them on their way, the seniors indulged in a more palatable menu.

Next the more serious part of the ceremonies were carried out with fitting dignity. The history, prophecy, and will were read at the fire-side. The fire was replenished with treasurers from four years past. As the last smell of the burning chem. apron diffused into the early morning mists, tired and foolish seniors packed up and returned to Alma Mater. And so the illustrious class of '40 joined the ranks of found classes along with the classes of '33, '35, '36, and '38.

EARLHAM SONGS

ALMA MATER

Words by Pearle D. Coffin

(Tune, Cornell's "Alma Mater")

First Verse

Guarded well by elms and maples,
Shrined in every heart,
Our beloved Alma Mater
Earlham, fair thou art.

Chorus

Alma Mater, we thy children,
Tribute bring to thee;
Hail to thee our dear old Earlham,
Hail, all hail, E. C.!

Second Verse

(to be sung softly)

Voices gay of youth and maiden
Echo 'round thy halls,
Mem'ries tender cling like ivy
To thy chambered walls.

PLEDGE SONG

By Myriam Page, '26

To Earlham now our song we raise:

Oh, she will ever be

The guardian of our college days,

A sacred memory.

As we look back on college years

Their gladness to recall,

We'll make her name still ring with cheers,

And love her best of all.

And though our feet may wander far

Though time may dim our eyes,

We'll see her trees still steeped with dew,

As twilight mists arise;

The visions of our youth will come

These hallowed walls we'll see.

We'll pledge again our hearts, our love,

Dear Earlham, still to thee!

SONGS OF THE CLASS OF '40

PODUNK CENTER

(Tune: St. James' Infirmary)

We came from Podunk Center,
We're dumb as dumb can be;
This college we did enter
To learn our A B C's.

We went to see our Prexy;
We shook just like a leaf;
He talked about the taxes
And how to get relief.

We thought we saw a fire;
There was a lot of smoke.
We all rushed to the graveyard
To find it was a joke.

We went thru all the buildings—
Oh, how the boards did squeak!
Stepped upon a cockroach,
Let out an awful shriek.

Around the Earlham campus
Were caps and aprons green;
And girls with shining faces
And boys with sore setees.

Our mothers all did warn us
That there'd be days like these;
But now we're soaring upward
'Cause now we're getting D's.

This school is tip top excellent
When all is said and done,
In spite of all our worries,
We've had a lot of fun.

EARLHAM MEMORIES

(Tune: Someday My Prince Will Come)

Earlham Hall and ivy vines;
Moonlight nights thru whispering pines;
Comstock Field and Trueblood Gym,
Where our athletes bravely win;
Magnolia trees and violets;
Cemetery silhouettes—
Tho we'll wander far away,
We'll all come back some day;
To Earlham we'll always be true.

SONG OF THE SENIORS

(Tune: Marching Along Together)

Working our way way through Earlham,
Office, kitchen, parlor maids;
Learning our way through Earlham,
Books, and notes, and tests, and grades;
Playing our way through Earlham
Hoping to win the game;
We've worked a bit and shirked a bit,
And followed the social trend;
We've griped a bit, and liked a bit,
And we're sorry it's to end,
Now we're going away from Earlham.
Good luck to you that we leave behind.
